

Smith, Rae B.
CIA-5-01.2 (Smith, Rae B.)

JAN 24 1964

PHILADELPHIA, PA.
BULLETIN

c. 709,751
S. 687,065

Editor	Editor	Editor
Page	Page	Page

Date: JAN 24 1964

Concurs With Writer's
Views on the CIA

I concur heartily with the views expressed by your columnist, Mr. Henry J. Taylor, under the heading, "The CIA: An Out-of-Hand Sick Elephant." Certainly it becomes more and more "out of hand." As for being sick, "senile" might be a better description.

Only a confused, old, deteriorating organization could have been responsible for the several recent, disastrous lapses of intelligence or misinterpretation thereof that have left us out on precarious limbs, to the laughter and distrust of us at home and our (dwindling) number of friends abroad.

Rae B. Smith